Both parties agreed to collaborate in the fields of Information Technology, scientific research, internship placements, distance learning courses and project management and quality assurance studies.

In the afternoon, the GCD management board toured the DTU campus. Mr. Nguyen Duc Man, Vice-Dean of the DTU International School, gave a brief introduction of DTU's advanced academic programs. “Over the last four years, we have collaborated with Carnegie Mellon University (CMU) to offer IT programs. Every one of the graduates secured good jobs at local technology companies. I hope that GCD will offer DTU students even more learning and career opportunities”, said Mr. Man.

Founded in 2000 in California, GCD has been one of the leading providers of system testing software, network solutions, embedded systems and advanced technologies.
