Associate Professor Ta said: “Presently, there is a shortage of qualified accountants in Vietnam with international qualifications. Through this partnership, we hope to provide DTU students with internationally-standardized programs, to broaden their career choices and ultimately improve the standards of accountancy and audit professionals in the Central region and throughout Vietnam.”

Under the agreement, the DTU will work with VACPA in training, research and career orientation. VACPA will provide the training courses with the materials and software to achieve this.

A discussion entitled “Orientation in Developing Independent Audits, an Opportunity and Challenge in accountancy and Audit Education” was featured at the event. Participants exchanged information about recruitment requirements, teaching methods to reform the academic Accountancy and Audit programs.

The Vietnam Association of Certified Public Accountants (VACPA) was established on 15th April 2005 in Hanoi. Its objective is to become an organization which will manage accounting and auditing practices, as requested by the Minister of Finance with approval from the Ministry of Home Affairs. VACPA has been providing support and conducting training sessions, technical updates, audit quality inspections, professional ethics monitoring, technical advice and sharing their experiences along the way. Its activities are contributing to the quality improvement of its members, and bringing the Vietnamese accounting and auditing profession up to international standards.
