DTU Software Testing Program for HP Company Products

On December 8th, 2010, HP Vietnam officially launched a software testing training program, which will be conducted at the Natural Sciences University, the Information Technology University, the Polytechnic University, the Hoa Sen University in HCMC and Duy Tan University.

Signing ceremony between DTU and HP Vietnam

Under the agreement, from January, 2011, lecturers at the five universities will be trained in software testing by HP specialists. After the training course, they will teach the students what they learned. Students will then have the knowledge to conform to global I/T standards.

It is estimated that, in one year, about 200 3rd and 4th year I/T students will take part. The HP Company will provide software training and testing materials for DTU students.

Students who complete the training course will be awarded certificates. When they pass the HP exam, they will receive an HP Accredited Integration Specialist (AIS) certificate, which is recognized professionally worldwide.
