Efficient accounting systems are vital in any business. Accountants are responsible for collecting, processing and providing information about asset creation sources and transfers, in addition to advising companies on integrating their finances and business strategies. Auditors have special responsibilities to verify the accuracy of corporate data and advise companies on ways of balancing revenue and expenditure. They also participate in business development and support businesses in expanding or narrowing down their activities in specific areas, in order to become as effective and profitable as possible.

DTU signed agreements with many universities and businesses to support Accounting students with training and internships
